MID SUSSEX AMATEUR RADIO SOCIETY (MSARS)

Under the new EU General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR), many organisations are required to seek the consent from all individuals that they hold, or are to hold, data on. Because of this directive, as a club, we are obliged to ensure that our members are fully aware of the data we hold, how we use it and how long we hold it for. This legislation is effective from 25th May 2018.

At MSARS we value the trust of all our members. To earn your trust, we respect your privacy in handling personal data relating to you and acknowledge that you deserve full control in deciding what happens with your data. This Privacy Policy describes who controls the personal data we collect about you, what types of personal data we collect about you, what we do with it and how you can control our use of it.

Who controls personal data gathered about you?

Your personal data is collected, processed and used by the Club Secretary.

What personal data does MSARS collect?

We collect personal data that you voluntarily provide to us when you register as a member with us. Such personal data includes: title, full name, address, date of birth, call sign, telephone and/or mobile telephone and email address.

How does MSARS use personal data about me?

The transactional data we collect will be used to complete our club records and provide you with specifically tailored information through the pre-agreed mediums of communication outlined in the Consent Form/Privacy Notice.

With whom might MSARS share personal data about me?

None of your information will be provided to a third party or other club members other than the Committee members, RSGB or Ofcom unless you have provided written instructions on your Membership Application Form. The President and Committee members' call signs and telephone numbers will be published in the Mid Sussex Matters newsletter unless the Club Newsletter Editor receives a request to withhold such information.

How can I access or update personally identifiable information about myself?

Your data is always available to you. You can request a breakdown of the data MSARS hold on you at any time and you can request that your data is deleted.

How may I contact MSARS?

If you have any questions regarding our handling of your personal data please contact the Club Secretary.
